Rev. A. Wirt Lowther Delivered Splendid Address at Township Commencement Exercises.

THIRTY-NINE WERE GRADUATED

Speaker Emphasized Need of High Ideal in Address on "Fourfold Secret of a Great Life."

Thirty-nine pupils of the Jackson and Redding township schools received their diplomas at the annual commencement exercises held at the Majestic Theater Wednesday night. In presenting the diplomas County Superintendent J. E. Payne stated that the class was not only the largest in the county but the average grade was the highest. The theater was filled with the relatives and friends of the class and the patrons of the schools. The platform was made attractive with floral decorations and the members of the graduating class occupied chairs arranged in four rows on the stage. For several years the two townships have held joint commencement exercises and the plan has proven very satisfactory.

The class address was delivered by the Rev. A. Wirt Lowther, pastor of the First M. E. church at Columbus. He spoke on the subject of "Fourfold Secret of a Great Life" and admonished the pupils to fix a high ideal in life. He declared that life is no higher than the ideal and that it swings up and down according to the goal.

The speaker said that it was of great importance that each one have a noble purpose in life as well as a high ideal. Purpose makes the man, Rev. Mr. Lowther asserted, and no life can be a great success unless effort is made to attain the goal. He defined character as purpose crystallized.

A sublime conviction is another element of a successful life, declared the speaker. "We can, if we think we can," he said, so it is necessary to have confidence in the task that is to be undertaken.

The fourth element of a successful life is an all-consuming love; said the Rev. Mr. Lowther. It is the strongest, strongest and sweetest force, he said, but the most effective love is that which expresses itself in worship to the Divine Being and in service to mankind. He told the story of how Willie McLaughlin saved seventeen lives in the Iroquois Theater fire at Chicago to illustrate the point.

The Rev. Mr. Lowther is a clear thinker and a splendid orator. He possesses an excellent delivery and can command the strict attention of his audience. His advice to the class made a deep impression upon the members and his remarks will be remembered for their real worth and the excellent thoughts which were so carefully and forcibly presented.

The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Rev. H. R. Boech, pastor of the St. Paul church. The class motto was "Not failure but low aim is crime," and the class colors were pink and light blue. The

LOCAL PHYSICIAN ARRESTED
UNDER FEDERAL INDICTMENT

Dr. J. H. Carter Alleged to Have Violated Regulations—Under Bond For $500.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, May 21.—Dr. J. H. Carter, of Seymour, has been arrested on a federal grand jury indictment which charges him with a violation of the postal regulations. He was placed under bond for $500.

It is reported that postoffice inspectors received complaints about the alleged forbidden mail matter from the Seymour neighborhood. An inspector was placed on the case and started an investigation.

It is said that an inspector went to Logansport and under an assumed name of Ingersoll wrote to the Seymour physician and that Dr. Carter answered the letter.

The local physician was served with the papers by a United States Deputy Marshal Wednesday afternoon. He immediately gave bond for his appearance in the federal court. When asked today about the indictment Dr. Carter said that he knew nothing about it until the papers were served by the marshal.

REPUBLICANS OF TOWNSHIP WILL MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Convention Will be Held at City Hall at 7:30 O'clock—Much Interest Shown in Meeting.

In Republican circles there is much interest in the township convention which will be held at the city building Friday night, May 22. Two candidates have already announced for trustee and it is understood that at least one more may enter the race. The friendly contests have caused much interest to be shown in the convention as the friends of those in the race are actively engaged in their behalf.

The indications are that the council chamber will be crowded and the township committee is already giving some thought to accommodating those present. Every Republican in the township is urged to attend the convention. The prospects are very bright for the party in this township and all of the candidates for trustee have stated that they may make a thorough canvass is nominated. Several candidates have been mentioned for other places on the ticket.

COLUMBUS, O., HOSPITAL CORPS ON WAY TO TEXAS

Soldiers from Ohio Barracks Sent to Mexican Border—Trip Made Over B. & O. Southwestern.

A special B. & O. Southwestern train, carrying a hospital corps of the United States army from Columbus, O., barracks to Texas City, Texas, arrived in this city this afternoon. The train was in charge of Howard Brown, conductor, and Engineer Earl Malick.

The corps was in charge of Lieutenant Edgar Thompson who did not know that the soldiers were to go to the border until about 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night. There were 104 soldiers, three non-commissioned officers and one commissioned officer on the train. The train was running on a very fast schedule and the first stop after leaving Cincinnati was made at this city where the water tanks in the cars were refilled and the engine and coaches inspected.

ACTION IS TAKEN
BY U. S. GRAND JURY

Prominent Residents of Martin County Charged with Violating Civil Service Laws.

BONDS ARE FIXED AT $1,000

Secret Service Men Say Plan is One of the Best Organized Brought to Attention of Courts.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, May 21.—Ten well known men prominent in affairs at Shoals and in Martin county were arrested today on federal grand jury indictments charging complicity in a plan to defeat civil service laws.

The men arrested are: Samuel Renneker, former rural mail carrier; Fabius Gwin, Brett Gwin, J. C. Carothers, Ott Carothers, W. K. Strange, Ambrose Strange, W. B. Sherfick, Claud Armstrong and William Jackman. All of the men were released under bond fixed at $1,000 in each case. Brett Gwin and Ott Carothers were not in the city but friends readily furnished the necessary bond.

Civil service men declare that the scheme worked by the men is one of the best organized plans to defeat the ends of the civil service laws that has ever been brought to the attention of the courts. It is alleged that three of the men went to New Albany to take the civil service examination for places at the Shoals postoffice and that they took the examinations in the names of others who were desirous of appointments.

The alleged violation was brought to light when one of the applicants failed to give a proper description as to color of eyes, hair and etc., of the man in whose name he was taking the test.

Each of the indictments are filed in nine counts. Seven of the counts provide for fines not to exceed $1,000 or for a prison sentence of not more than ten years. The court may assess the fine and fix a term in the penitentiary. It is possible under the indictments for the defendants to receive a total fine of $7,000 and a sentence of seventy years in the federal prison. The other two counts are punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 to which may be added a prison term of not more than two years.

Secret service men have been investigating these cases for several months and the action of the grand jury did not come as a surprise. Because of the prominence of the defendants the cases are awaited with great interest.

POSTOFFICE CLERK BECOMES MANAGER OF CHAUTAUQUAS

Carl R. Switzer Resigned Position and Enters New Field With Redpath Lyceum Bureau.

After six years service as clerk at the general delivery window at the Seymour postoffice Carl R. Switzer resigned his position today to become advance manager of the circuit chautauqua of the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Chicago. His term of service at the postoffice was marked by efficiency and courtesy and he received much praise for the able manner in which he conducted the business at the general delivery window.

In his new field of employment Mr. Switzer will travel extensively and will make final arrangements for the chautauquas at the various cities. He will leave tonight for Mississippi where the season will open. Considerable responsibility is attached to his new position as the success of the various assemblies will depend largely upon his work in completing the ticket sale and contracting for the final advertising campaign.

With the departure of Mr. Switzer from the postoffice John Roeger, former night clerk, will be advanced as general delivery window clerk and R. W. Hargitt, substitute clerk, will become night clerk. For the present, at least, no one will be appointed to take the place held by Mr. Hargitt.

DRANK CARBOLIC ACID WITH SUICIDAL INTENT

Otto Swalls Found Lying on the Street but Prompt Medical Attention Saved His Life.

Otto Swalls attempted to commit suicide Wednesday night by taking carbolie acid, according to the telephone message that came to the city building. The first message asked that the police be sent to Bruce street as a man in an intoxicated condition was lying in the street. Before the police could leave, however, another message was received that the man had taken carbolie acid and asked that a physician be sent there.

Swalls was taken to his boarding house on Bruce street where medical attention was given. A bottle containing a quantity of acid was found in his pocket and it is reported that he drank a small quantity of the poison. His condition is not serious and he will recover. No cause is assigned for his attempt to take his life.

REV. E. L. PETTUS WILL GIVE MEMORIAL ADDRESS SUNDAY

Annual Service for Veterans and Relief Corps Will be Held Next Sunday at Christian Church.

The G. A. R. has selected the Rev. Edward L. Pettus, pastor of the Christian church, to deliver the annual Memorial Sunday address. The sermon will be delivered Sunday morning at the Christian church and the members of the G. A. R. and Woman's Relief Corps will attend in a body.

Memorial Sunday is observed each year on the first Sunday before Decoration Day. Special music has been arranged by the choir of the Christian church. The veterans and the Relief Corps will assemble at their hall and march to the church. The program for Decoration Day, May 30, has not been completed.

The class play at the Majestic Theater tonight will begin at 8 o'clock instead of 8:30.

NEW CONDITIONS
CHANGE SITUATION

Advance of Villa's Army Will Have Bearing With Mediators on Settlement of Difficulties.

REBELS CANNOT BE STOPPED

Victories Weaken Contention of Huerta and It is Thought He Will be Forced to Resign.

Niagara Falls, Ontario, May 21.—There is a feeling on the part of the principals to the mediation conference here that the savage advance of the Constitutionalist army under General Villa inevitably must have a bearing on the settlement of the difficulties between the United States and Huerta's party. When the South American mediators withdrew the invitation they had extended to General Carranza to send delegates to the Niagara Falls conference, because of the refusal of the Constitutionalist leader to agree to an armistice to continue during the sessions, it was stated that the conference would proceed to a consideration of questions growing out of the Tampico incident and subsequent causes of irritation between the Mexican Federal army and the American military forces.

Official reports from Constitutionalist sources, reciting the victories of Villa and his army in the Saltillo campaign, have convinced the Mexican representatives here that Huerta's enemies can not be stopped. Moreover, the execution of a Federal general and his entire staff by Villa has impressed on them the fact that leaders of the Federal army can not hope for mercy if they fall into the hands of the Constitutionalists.

That the weakening situation of the Federal forces may force Huerta's hand is recognized here. The Mexican delegates came here believing that any announcement of Huerta's attitude toward proposals looking to a settlement of the Mexican trouble would be left to them to announce and their strongest card was believed to be authority given by Huerta to agree to his effacement, conditional on the selection of a temporary government acceptable to the interests represented by him.

All this is changed by Villa's successes. The Federal forces have shown no love of fight and the leaders are not expected to offer the stubborn resistance that marked so many of the engagements, with the army steadily advancing on the Mexican capital. As a result, Huerta's supporters fear that he may not dare await the outcome of the situation. It was because of this feeling that all principals of the conference, yesterday, accepted unhesitatingly a dispatch from Mexico City saying that Huerta had himself confirmed reports that he was willing to retire if his resignation was necessary to peace. Later it was learned that there had been an error in transmission and that Huerta had not authorized such a statement, but this did not materially change the situation. It was evident that the incorrect announcement had caused no surprise.

LIGHT COLORS FAVORED FOR EARLY SUMMER

Although white will be quite as popular as ever this summer, there is also a demand for the soft shades of yellow, pink, blue and other light tones. The imported crêpes which are being so widely used for summer frocks, show quaint figures and dainty colorings; silks also come in all the new shades and designs. For separate blouses the figured and plain colored crêpes are used; collar and cuffs are usually of white batiste or organdy, and the buttons most popular are novelty porcelain and bone.

In No. 8254-8255 a figured crêpe blouse is combined with a skirt of taffeta for afternoon wear. An unusual collar and a raglan shoulder are smart features of the blouse and the skirt displays a modish bit of drapery. It is a two-piece skirt with two wide plaits laid in the back to suggest a peg-top effect; the front drapery also carries out this idea.

Crêpe ranges in price from 45 cents a yard and up; taffetas may be purchased from $1.25 and up.

This blouse (8254) may be made in size 36 with 2 yards of 36-inch material; the skirt (8255) requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

Cotton crêpe in a delicate shade of yellow was used to develop the misses' dress shown in No. 7836. Bands of eyelet embroidery outline the edges of the surplice closing blouse and extend down the front to carry out the effect of a tunic. The skirt is a two-piece model tucked to appear like a tiered model.

For a girl of eighteen, 6 1/2 yards of 36-inch material are required.

No. 8254—sizes 30 to 42.
No. 8255—sizes 22 to 32.
No. 7836—sizes 16, 17 and 18.
Each pattern 15 cents.

REBELS ON LAST LAP OF ADVANCE

Program Provides For Quick Dash Toward Mexico City.

TWO-THIRDS OF WAY THERE

Mazatlan the Goal After Villa Gains Saltillo—Possibility That Huerta May Move the Government to Puebla, Scene of Many Battles, Said to Be More Easily Defended Than Capital.

The fall of Tampico has carried the arms of the Constitutionalists to victory two-thirds of the way from the Texas frontier to the Mexican capital.

They expect to control very soon all territory north of the twenty-second degree of latitude, a little below the latitude of Tampico. They profess to be able to enter the City of Mexico in less than a month. The only garrisons of importance still held by the Mexican federalists north of the twenty-second parallel are Saltillo, San Luis Potosi and Mazatlan.

The Constitutionalists have three main army divisions. Two of these, under command of Generals Villa and Gonzales, will join for the final assault on San Luis Potosi. The third division, under command of General Obregon, which has been operating on the west coast, has orders to capture Mazatlan.

When these three generals have wrested Saltillo, Mazatlan and San Luis Potosi from the hands of the federalists their forces will converge upon Mexico City. Villa and Gonzales are to approach the capital from the north, with San Luis Potosi as their base. General Obregon will swing his forces eastward from Guadalajara and march on the capital. Thus it is the purpose to have men of all three divisions of the Constitutional army participate in the assault on Mexico City.

Saltillo is now the only garrison of importance held by the federalists north of Tampico and San Luis Potosi. General Joaquin Maas commands the federal garrison there. Villa, advancing from Torreón, is now south of Paredon and very near to Saltillo. His army is reported to comprise more than 15,000 men, while Maas has not more than 5,000 men and probably nearer 4,000.

Mazatlan After Saltillo.

The Constitutionalists expect Villa to gain Saltillo any moment and think his forces will be well on their way to San Luis Potosi soon thereafter. Gonzales by that time expects to have 5,000 or more men operating against San Luis Potosi. Generals Torres and Aguilar, commanding a flying column which has cut rail communication between Tampico and San Luis Potosi, will also participate in the attack on the latter city. The Constitutionalists have some smaller commands in the states of Queretaro and Hidalgo operating under orders to cut the railroads and prevent the sending of reinforcements to San Luis Potosi.

Huerta has been having difficulty in obtaining troops to use against the rebels at San Luis Potosi. Recruits in Mexico City threatened to mutiny rather than enter the campaign against the Constitutionalists north of the Mexican capital, but information has been received here that some of these recruits would be willing to serve against an American army advancing from Vera Cruz.

At Mazatlan, the port on the west coast which has been besieged for weeks, fights take place daily, and aeroplanes are being used by the Constitutionalists for dropping bombs in the federal trenches.

In expectation of the fall of Mazatlan, Constitutionalist columns penetrated southward through Sinaloa into the territory of Tepic. They captured Acaponeta and San Blas and are working toward Guadalajara. When Mazatlan has been taken the main body of Obregon's army will follow these columns and march on Guadalajara.

Puebla the Strategic Point.

The army of the south, under command of General Zapata, is menacing Mexico City from the southwest. The Zapatistas are not formally connected with the Constitutionalists, but the Constitutionalists regard their leader as an ally.

At the present time Huerta's only open route to the sea is over the railroad leading south from Mexico City to Puerto Mexico, the eastern terminus of the Tehuantepec railway, and possibly Salina Cruz, the western terminus. His forces also control the country east of Mexico City along the lines of the Mexican National railway and the Inter-oceanic railway toward Vera Cruz.

The most strategic point in that whole district is the ancient city of Puebla, says the New York Times' Washington correspondent. There is a suspicion here, based on intimations from Mexico City and statements of refugees, who say that Puebla is more easily defended than the capital, that General Huerta, when assured of the loss of Saltillo and the advance of the Constitutionalists upon San Luis Potosi, will transfer his government and capital to Puebla.

Puebla has been the scene of many battles, dating back to the days of the Spanish conquest. It has 95,000 population and is surrounded by a circle of hills so situated as to be easily used for defense and trenches.

"THUNDER BIRD" OF INDIAN LEGEND IS NOT A MYTH.

Rare Specimen of Willow Ptarmigan Found Frozen on Solitary Heights.

Color has been given to a weird Indian legend of the "thunder bird" by the recent discovery on the topmost edge of the timber line of the mountains of Glacier park, Montana, of a rare specimen of the willow ptarmigan bird, frozen to death at a solitary height. The "thunder bird" legend has long been regarded as gospel by the Blackfoot Indians of Glacier park reservation, but white men have smiled at it. Since the discovery of the strange bird frozen to death the Indians have been lamenting the fact as an ill omen.

Here is the story of the "thunder bird" translated literally, as old Chief Three Bears of the Blackfoot Indians faithfully repeats it to this day:

"Long ago there was an old man who was called Three Bears. When he was a young man the Blackfeet were camping on Elk river. It was summer. The long time rain had commenced. In the morning when he went for the horses (to bring them into the camp) he came to this river. He saw there was a bird (that) was sitting (near the edge of the water). He walked toward it. When he was looking at it, then he knew (that) the bird did not belong to this country. Its feathers were all of different colors; its bill was green colored; its legs were colored the same. It had three claws. It would not open its eyes (literally, look). He then caught it. Then he took it home.

"When he entered all the chiefs were invited. They all entered. The bird sat at the upper end of the lodge. He told these chiefs, 'Now, here is a bird that you may look at it (to know) what it is.' It was not known (nobody could tell what kind of a bird it was). After a long while Four Bears pushed it. When it opened its eyes (literally, looked) then it flashed lightning. The flap of the tepee lay open. The bird flew toward the door. When it opened its eyes (literally, looked) again, then it flashed lightning again. When it flew, then the thunder roared. That way the thunder was seen."

The recently discovered "thunder bird" was brought to Glacier park station by Chief Three Bears, who made the trip over the mountains on snowshoes in order to intercept Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, and to have him take it to an expert taxidermist for preservation.

Mr. Hill went to Kalispell, Mont., in order to deliver the sacred bird to H. P. Stanford, a Rocky mountain taxidermist and ornithologist. The moment he saw the bird he exclaimed:

"This is a very rare specimen. It is the willow ptarmigan, which has been reported only twice in the United States, once in Maine and once in Massachusetts."

The bird will be exhibited in the forest lobby of the big log hotel at the eastern gateway to the newest national park as a memorial of the Indian peace councils that were formerly held.

$4,573,000 FOR TROOPS.

Cost of Mexican Action Thus Far In Extraordinary Expenses.

The "war of service," as President Wilson described the presence of American troops in Mexico, is not without cost. In the end the figures may run up far into millions, and thus far the outgo for the army is not small. With the navy there has been little expenditure over and above the regular maintenance appropriations. In the case of the army there has been transportation, equipment, subsistence in the field under conditions causing excessive expense and many other unusual items.

Major General J. B. Aleshire, the quartermaster general, at the request of the secretary of war, has made an estimate of the extraordinary expenditures for the movement of troops thus far. The total amounts to $4,573,136. Of this $2,500,000 is for transportation, $1,100,000 for subsistence, in which is included the purchase of the supply of beef at Vera Cruz from the navy, as the army has no refrigerator ship there, and $24,000 for additional or foreign pay for officers and men.

It is expected that there will be a large sum required for the payment of rent for quarters for officers and men at Vera Cruz. In the meantime the war department has authorized the expenditure of $25,000 in Vera Cruz for sanitation.

Two Thousand Actors In "The Miracle."

"The Miracle," Karl Vollmoeller's wordless mystery pageant, which created a stir throughout Europe, is to be presented in Madison Square Garden, New York, the first part of December. Over 2,000 actors will take part. The money necessary for the undertaking has been pledged by wealthy New Yorkers. Costumes, scenery, mechanical effects and accessories alone represent an outlay of $100,000.

DEPARTMENT ARRANGED FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Another Feature Announced For the Local Art Exhibit—Several Artists to Speak.

Following the announcement yesterday that F. C. Steele, of Indianapolis, a prominent Indiana artist, will speak at the art exhibit Tuesday night, Earl M. Cox, secretary of the Seymour Art League, stated today that he was in communication with several other widely known artists and that other addresses would be given here during the two weeks the exhibit is in progress. These addresses will be important features of the week.

Announcement is also made today that in addition to the regular exhibit the students of the high school will have some of their work on display. In this department will be found water colors and pastels. The department was arranged to give the high school students an opportunity to exhibit their work and also to encourage the further study of art among the students. The high school pictures will be displayed in one of the orth rooms of the building.

The committee is especially pleased with the high character of the pictures contributed by the local artists. Their work has been complimented and are evidences of the talent that may be found in Seymour.

L. O. Griffith, of the Art Institute of Chicago, has sent a picture the title of which is "Shades." The art journals have given this picture much space and say that it affords Mr. Griffith an opportunity to show his talent along this particular line.

Marie C. Gray, of Indianapolis, maintains a studio in that city and has contributed a very beautiful work entitled, "Evening."

Blanche Stillson, of Indianapolis, has a wide reputation in art circles and will have a pastel, "Study," on exhibition here.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION FOR STATE MILITIA, JUNE 22-26:

Date for Annual National Guard Encampment is Yet to be Fixed—to be Maneuver Camp:

By United Press.

Indianapolis, May 21—Unless there is a war with Mexico, the annual school of instruction for officers of the state militia, with several new features, will be held at Fort Benjamin Harrison June 22 to 26 inclusive. Over 150 officers will be here at that time, according to an announcement by Adjutant General Bridges today.

Date for the annual national guard encampment has not yet been set. It has been delayed by the Mexican trouble. The date will be set by the war department, and Bridges said there is a desire to avoid the encampment if mobilization orders are to be issued later. With the crisis gradually subsiding, it is the general opinion now that the date for the encampment will be set soon.

More properly speaking, it will be a maneuver camp this year. Every second year the encampment is under charge of the war department and on that year is called a maneuver camp. The encampment last year was held about July 1.

The officers who must attend are colonels, majors, captains, lieutenants, first sergeants and quartermasters of the infantry regiments. They will receive exactly the same treatment privates receive during the regular encampment—will be mustered into four companies, drilled and disciplined with the end in view that they may be more efficient in the conduct of their duties as officers.

Reveille will be sounded at 5:55 o'clock. Twenty minutes will be given for dressing, and then comes breakfast, sharp at 6:15. The officers will be under practically instruction of drill from 7 to 11:45 a. m. and from 1 to 9 p. m., and the drill "will be no snap."

Among the new features this year will be the presence of a "school for cooks." Fred W. Jessup of Frankfort, Ind., who was recently sent to Fort Riley for six weeks of instruction as army cook, and who stood at the head of the efficiency list there, will be in charge of the cooks at the officers' school. He will himself be under a commissary officer. These cooks will cook for the officers, and their drill in this department will be as strict as that of the officers in theirs, for they are to return to their companies and battalions. There are two cooks to a company and eight to a battalion. There will be nine cooks at the school.

Major N. F. McClure of the Fifty cavalry is the officer tentatively selected to be chief instructor of the school.

Probably for the first time, the artillery companies will attend the state maneuver camp at Fort Harrison. The reason for this is that the artillery camp to have been held at Fort Riley has been called off. This action was taken because so many officers were at the Mexican frontier that not enough were left to serve as instructors for the artillerymen. General Bridges said that this school was not an exception. Very many similar schools have been postponed or discontinued altogether this season because of the Mexican crisis, he said.

If the maneuver camp is held, the recently reorganized signal corps and the hospital corps, together with the artillery from Fort Wayne, Indianapolis and Rockville probably will be here.

Announcement.

FOR TOWNSHIP TRUSTEE.

We are hereby authorized to announce the candidacy of Dr. W. M. Casey for trustee of Jackson township subject to the will of the Republican party.

We are hereby authorized to announce the candidacy of Edward C. Rinne for trustee of Jackson township subject to the decision of the Republican township convention.

Edward C. Rinne has announced his candidacy for trustee of Jackson county subject to the decision of the Republican township convention Friday night. The duties of this position are not new to Mr. Rinne as he was elected trustee on the Republican ticket some years ago and filled that office to the satisfaction to the people and with credit to himself. He holds a responsible position as bookkeeper at the Seymour National Bank and is fitted and qualified for the position he is seeking. He is well known throughout the township and gave his consent to make the race for the nomination at the solicitation of many of his friends.

On next Friday night the Republicans of Jackson township will meet at the city building for the purpose of nominating a township ticket. The Republicans have an excellent opportunity to elect a complete township ticket this fall and every Republican should attend the meeting and aid in nominating strong candidates. It is understood that the names of several well known Republicans will be presented as candidates for trustee.

Brigadier General Funston is the military dictator of the city of Vera Cruz. Twenty years ago he was a wandering printer and reporter.—Franklin Star.

And he is still fighting for a living.

Republican Township Convention.

A mass convention of the Republicans of Jackson township will be held Friday evening, May 22, 1914, at 8 o'clock at the city building, Seymour, Indiana, for the purpose of nominating candidates for township trustee, township assessor, justices of the peace and constables to be voted for at the general election to be held Nov. 3, 1914.

FIGHTING QUAKER'S PERILOUS MISSION

Major Butler Risked Life to Map Route to Mexico City.

OBTAINED PLAN OF DEFENSES

Wounded Bluejackets Tell Story of How Officer of Marine Corps, Dressed as Peon, Tricked Huerta's Troops and Brought Back Information of Incalculable Value.

There is a saying among army and navy men that Uncle Sam has never asked anything, no matter how dangerous it might have been, that somebody didn't volunteer at least to try.

Hobson had to argue with scores who wanted to help him bottle up the Spanish ships in Cuba when he could take along only six.

A nearsighted captain of infantry in the Philippines called for volunteers from his company to step forward for a supremely perilous job and "denned 'em all" as cowards until he discovered that the reason he thought they were all afraid was that every last man had taken the step.

Right beside these exploits and perhaps a bit beyond them, in that the penalty of failure was death as a spy, ranks the recent achievement of Major Smedley Darlington Butler of the United States marine corps as told to a New York Sun reporter by Ordinary Seaman James R. Copeland of the Utah in the hospital at the New York navy yard.

All that Major Butler, known among the marines and now to the sailors as "Hell Devil," did was to travel up to Mexico City, accompanied by a sergeant and a corporal of marines, two weeks before the occupation of Vera Cruz and in anticipation of a march by the army to the capital, and draw maps of the best route, not forgetting the most advantageous avenues of approach to the city itself, together with its defenses and the location of the defending forces.

Took Lives In Their Hands.

That may not sound so very thrilling, but it was. The whole country was aroused against Americans, and the three men took their lives in their hands. A dozen times they were near to capture and death. Once, at the very end of the journey, which lasted a week and a half, Butler was arrested by federal soldiers in Vera Cruz.

Fortunately for him, he had had foresight enough to stop at Consul Canada's office and leave there all his maps and notes, so that when he was searched just as he was about to step into a boat to return to the Utah he didn't have a single incriminating thing upon him unless a copy of the Mexican Herald was one, so they had to let him go.

According to Copeland and other wounded bluejackets who heard the story from the lips of an officer teacher in the school on the Utah, Major Butler and his companions, whose names the narrators couldn't remember, started out late one night from Vera Cruz dressed in the oldest civilian clothes obtainable.

"Here's the way I heard it," said Copeland while two wounded companions stood by and helped him out with the story. "The major—we call him 'Hell Devil' and 'the fighting Quaker,' being as he comes from Quaker stock—just picked out the sergeant and the corporal who had done some stunts with him in the Philippines, all of 'em dressed up in the oldest suits they could find, and they started out. They got through Vera Cruz without being suspected and hoofed off for Mexico City.

Got Valuable Information.

"They didn't go by the railroad route because there were too many soldiers along that, and anyway anybody could follow a railroad. They bit off along the wagon route, and when they came back they had drawn maps and notes of every hog path and water course and bridge and everything all the way.

"They told us that the three went right into the City of Mexico and were not suspected because they were so dirty and mugged up that they looked like peons. Anyhow they got enough information so that if the army goes up to the capital and can't do it on trains they won't have to worry about a route.

"In the City of Mexico they found out all about the fortifications and where Huerta had his troops and the best ways to make an attack. They were there a day and a night, and then they started to hike it back to Vera Cruz. They had to dodge gangs of Mexican soldiers a dozen times, and they were a forlorn looking lot when they landed."

Major Butler, though still a young man, is a veteran of forty engagements. He took part in the international expedition to Peking during the Boxer uprising in 1900. In the fighting at Tientsin he was dangerously wounded and was assisted from the field by Major Harry Leonard, U. S. M. C., since retired.

Women Sharpshooters.

Mrs. Vera Taylor and her daughter, both of Oklahoma, are planning to organize a company of women sharpshooters, whose services will be offered to the United States army in case of a Mexican war. Mrs. Taylor was one of the first settlers of Oklahoma.

In the News and Out of the Ordinary

Mrs. Bridget D. Curran died at South Bethlehem, Pa., aged 107. Her mother lived to be 102 and her grandfather 108.

By keeping tabs on the incoming mail at Syracuse, N. Y., postoffice officials have found eighty different spellings of the name of that city.

Harry Wright of Bath, Me., feels proud of the fact that his first setting of seventeen eggs brought him seventeen chicks, and the second of sixteen eggs brought him fifteen chicks.

Stanley Ernest King, son of Henry Ernest King of Lewiston, Me., is especially blessed with grandparents. He has four great-grandmothers and four great-grandfathers living under the same roof.

Mayor Kravlag of Elizabeth, N. J., constituted himself a traffic officer on Broad street, the busiest thoroughfare, for two nights in response to complaints from citizens who narrowly escaped being run down by motorists.

EXPLANATION OF THE NEW LAW ON FOOD PACKAGES.

Net Weight Regulations Require True and Exact Statements.

Regulations for the carrying out of the so called net weight law, which compels manufacturers to make a clear statement of the weight, volume or contents of packages of food, were signed May 11 by the secretaries of the treasury, agriculture and commerce. They apply to foods shipped in interstate commerce or sold in the District of Columbia or the territories and become effective at once, although the law, passed March 3, 1913, as an amendment to the food and drugs act defers the exacting of penalties for violations until Sept. 3, 1914.

The regulations in general require that the manufacturer of foods shall plainly mark all packages, bottles or other containers holding more than two ounces avoirdupois or more than one fluid ounce. The measure must be stated in avoirdupois pounds and ounces, United States gallons, quarts, pints or fluid ounces, United States standard bushels, half bushels, pecks, quarts, pints or half pints. The contents by a like method may be expressed in terms of metric weight or measure. The volume of liquids must be computed at 68 degrees F. The quantity stated must be exclusive of wrappings and container.

In general solids must be stated in terms of weight and liquids in terms of volume, except where there is a definite trade custom; otherwise any marking in terms generally understood to express definite quantities will be permitted.

With certain articles the contents may be stated by numerical count provided it gives accurate information as to the quantity. It would not be enough to state that a package of candy contained twenty-four cream peppermints, as candies vary in size.

In the packing and bottling of many foods the regulations permit tolerances where discrepancies are due to unavoidable errors in weighing, measuring or counting which occur in packing conducted in compliance with good commercial practice. However, a run of such packages must show as many cases of overweight and excess as of underweight or undervolume.

Because goods shipped from one part of the country to another lose in weight by natural evaporation, due to differences of atmospheric condition or temperature, tolerances will be allowed for such changes.

IGNORANCE KILLS BABIES.

Health Bulletin Warns Mothers Against Perils of Improper Feeding.

Valuable comments and suggestions to mothers are made in a bulletin issued by the District of Columbia health department. Care of the child in hot weather is discussed in the bulletin, which says:

"A very large percentage of infantile diseases, particularly in hot weather, is due to intestinal disturbances caused by a combination of improper attention and injudicious feeding. It is unfortunate how lacking in knowledge many mothers are—who are otherwise intelligent—of the first principles of the proper care of their offspring, and this ignorance in itself is a fruitful cause of infant mortality.

"It is said that mother instinct points the way for the proper care of the baby. This intuitive knowledge may serve its purpose with the lower animals, but is by no means sufficient for the human being.

"The human mother ought to learn the grave dangers of substituting artificial feeding for nature's method. She ought to know that her full duty to her baby is unfulfilled when she feeds it by proxy. Of course exceptions occasionally occur, when the mother's milk is wholly lacking, but there are few mothers who cannot furnish at least a portion needed by the child, and even a small quantity helps.

"The baby is not always hungry when it cries—often he is simply thirsty—but the mother too often gives him the breast when it would have been better to give him a drink of cool water. A baby, especially in hot weather, craves water just as do grown people and should have it frequently."

KANSAS COLLEGE HAS NEW EXTENSION PLAN

Rural Questions Pertaining to Improvement of the Community Will be Considered.

By United Press.

Manhattan, Kansas, May 21—Realizing that the rural life problems in Kansas include more than corn and pig questions, the Kansas Agricultural College today has a new department—the Rural Service Department—and chosen Rev. Walter Burr of Louisville, Kansas, to direct its work.

President Waters today is hopeful that the department will be of real service to the rural life of the state.

Mr. Burr's department finds plenty of work already outlined, much of which heretofore has been carried on in a limited way as the Division of College Extension. The department of rural service will be expected under the rural welfare division to organize Community Welfare clubs; organize social centers, literary societies, etc., co-operate with the churches for welfare work; co-operate with women's clubs for welfare work; co-operate with the state board of health on rural health problems; conduct social surveys in rural communities; address religious conferences; promote musical organizations; address farmers' institutes; conduct rural chautauques; write articles and pamphlets on rural life problems and correspond with persons interested in rural service.

The rural education division will supervise boys' Agricultural clubs and contests, girls' garden, bread, canning and other contests; Boys' and Girls' study clubs for the school year; outlining supplementary school study of agriculture and domestic science; supervise field work in promoting vocational education and revitalize rural villages and schools; plan and conduct boys' camps; promote proper athletic relations in rural communities; address teachers associations, school officers' meetings, chautauques; attend farmers' institutes; conduct two-day classes in vocational subjects for rural teachers.

Burr has had unique and valuable training and experience; he was educated at Knox college and Pacific Coast seminary; worked as a journeyman printer; was a college teacher and lecturer in California; did welfare work in Kansas City, Kansas, and preached in Olathe, Kansas. His work will be mainly along the line of organizing Community Welfare Clubs, or social centers co-operating with rural churches, welfare organizations and addressing educational and religious and welfare associations of all kinds.

After the first of September the Boys' and Girls' clubwork and all the work for the boys and girls will be in this department with a specialist in charge of an assistant to Burr. By September 1915, it is expected that two additional assistants will be needed to take care of the many calls for this social and educational welfare department.

Fell From Boiler.

Riley Goble, engineer at the Rockford power plant of the Seymour Water Company, was quite painfully injured Wednesday afternoon when he fell from the top of a boiler. He was reaching for a wrench and the leg of his trousers caught on some object and he pitched head long onto a pile of bricks several feet below. He struck on his shoulder and suffered a gash on his lip. While his injuries are painful they are not serious. He came to this city and received the attention of a physician.

W. C. HALL TO PRESIDE AT INDIANA S. S. CONVENTION

Conference will Open at Indianapolis
June 6 and Many Problems
Will be Discussed.

The General Sessions of the Indiana Sunday School Convention that opens June 6th for a three days' session in Indianapolis will be presided over by Mr. W. C. Hall, who has been president of Interdenominational Sunday School work for eighteen years. Mr. Hall has been untiring in his efforts to raise the standard of Sunday School work in Indiana, giving a great deal of time and thought for which he receives no remuneration.

Beginning with Tuesday morning

many conference periods have been arranged where the problems of the individual school may be discussed. The first morning will be devoted to the workers in county and township but the remainder will be general. Thursday morning at eight-thirty the members of the various denominations will meet separately to discuss problems pertaining to their own churches. Thursday afternoon will be devoted to three simultaneous rallies of Elementary, Teen Age and Adult workers and teachers.

For further information regarding any of these conferences or session write the Indiana Sunday School Association, 417 Law Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

CONFERENCE IS NOW UNDER WAY

Mediators Adopt Rules of Procedure.

MEETINGS ARE TO BE SECRET

Minutes of the Niagara Conference Are to Be Kept in Three Languages, English, Spanish and Portuguese, Five Copies to Be Made—Ambassador Da Gama, Presiding, Invokes the "Clear Voice of Reason."

Washington, May 21.—Huerta's denial that he had authorized his representatives at Niagara Falls to offer his resignation has not altered the belief in Washington that Huerta's elimination will be brought about as a result of the present mediation conferences.

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 21.—The mediation conferences arranged by the governments of Argentina, Brazil and Chile for the solution of the Mexican problem are now in progress. Ambassador Da Gama, of Brazil, the ranking diplomat, welcomed the representatives of the United States and of Mexico on behalf of the mediators in a stirring address, the keynote of which was the hope that above all the tumult will be heard the clear voice of reason counselling the sacrifice of person in favor of the collective interests of the people.

The first meeting of the delegates to the conference lasted thirty-five minutes, the methods of procedure being the only subject discussed. The delegates, however, had already had occasion to become acquainted with each other, and the prevailing impression among them after the meeting appeared to be extremely favorable and hopeful. None of the mediators or the representatives was willing to discuss the subject or even to venture a guess as to the probable length of time required for the discussion of the problems involved.

Senior Eduardo Suarez Mujica, minister of Chile, was not present at the opening meeting yesterday afternoon. It was explained that a message had been received from him in which he asked to be excused, owing to unforeseen circumstances which had prevented his arrival here, and requested that the conference be started without him. He is in attendance today.

Rules of Procedure.

At the conclusion of the Brazilian envoy's address, Justice Lamar, American representative, and Senor Rabassa, Mexican representative, made short and appropriate addresses. Immediately thereafter the mediators and delegates discussed the mode of procedure to be adopted during the conference, and the following rules, suggested by the mediators, were adopted:

The plenipotentiaries of Brazil, Argentina and Chile will preside over the conferences, and the minutes of the proceedings will be signed by the representatives and the three mediators and shall be drafted in English, Spanish and Portuguese, five copies to be made, one copy for each of the representatives and one for each of the mediators. The deliberations shall be secret.

The full conference will be held first, for the expression of the views of the representatives, upon their request; second, for the presentation of bases of settlement; third, for their acceptance or rejection. The conferences will be closed by a full final session at which will be stated all the particular circumstances which were considered in arriving at the final result of the conferences, whatever such result may be. In the event of a favorable solution being reported, the minutes of the last full session at which said solution was accepted shall form the basis of the protocol of documents to be signed, this to be followed by closing addresses by the mediators and representatives should they so desire.

ABOUT READY FOR THE JURY

Becker's Fate Will Be in Hands of the Twelve Tomorrow.

New York, May 21.—Charles Becker will not testify in his own defense and the case will go to the jury tomorrow morning. Testimony was completed at noon today and Mr. Manton and Mr. Whitman are making their closing addresses to the jury this afternoon. Justice Seabury will deliver his charge at the opening of court tomorrow. Justice Seabury refused to permit Father Cashion, Warden Clancy and Principal Keeper McNery of Sing Sing to testify that they heard Dago Frank's confession: "I never heard that Becker had anything to do with it."

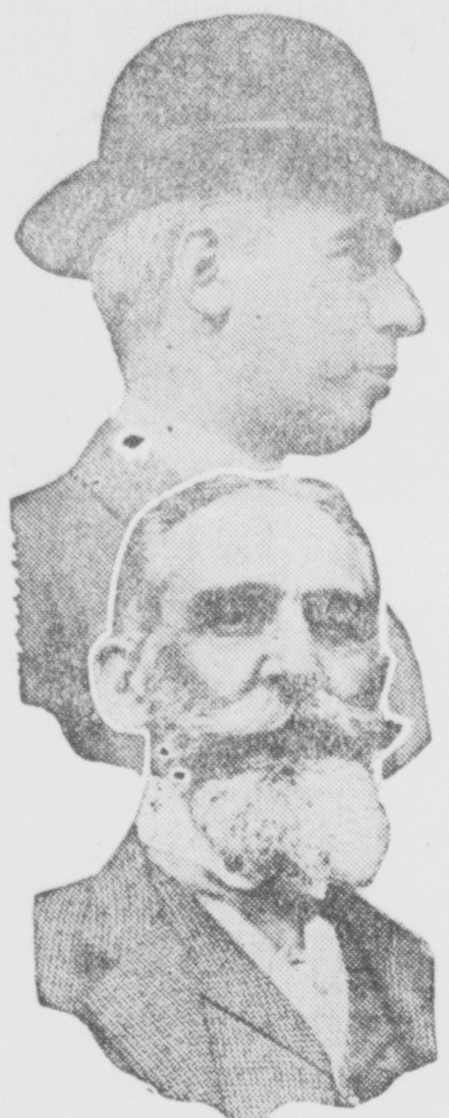

The ruling that the men from Sing Sing could not take the stand and that the jury must not hear the argument over the admissibility of the testimony was a decided setback for the defense.

SALTILLO PROBABLY UNDER BOMBARDMENT

Meager Word From "the Front" Reaches Border.

Juarez, May 21.—Rebel forces under General Villa are engaged in a battle with the federal army at Saltillo under command of Generals Maas and Demoure, and the city may now be under bombardment, according to rumors which have reached the border. On account of the prohibition by General Villa on the sending of press matter, definite advices of the progress of the battle are lacking.

Federal General Orson and his staff of thirty-two officers, fleeing toward Saltillo from the battlefield of Paredon, were captured at Zertuche by the rebels and at once executed, according to a message received in Juarez from Villa's private secretary, Luis Benavides. Two federal generals were killed in the fighting at Paredon. Eight hundred federal peons were captured. Villa's own losses, he said, were relatively small.

MORE LIGHT ON MORGAN'S DEALS

How the New Haven Railroad Was "Financed."

ANOTHER CHAPTER IS ADDED

Charles S. Mellen Continues His Remarkable Account of the Financing of the New Haven Railroad, Entering Into Intimate Details of Singular Transactions For the Information of Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, May 21.—Ex-President Charles S. Mellen of the New Haven railroad, has added another chapter to his remarkable account of the financing of the New Haven railroad.

He cited further instances tending to show the domination of the New Haven system by the late J. P. Morgan. He told of the purchase by Mr. Morgan of control of the Worcester, Nassau and Rhode Island railroad for the Boston and Maine without, so far as Mellen knew, any authorization from the Boston and Maine's board of directors or from the officers of that road. The first Mellen knew of the purchase or the price paid was when Morgan called over the telephone and asked him to notify President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine.

"Jerusalem!" was all Mellen had to say when this information was imparted to him by Morgan.

Again the former president of the New Haven described Morgan as the master mind not only of that system, but of any transaction in which he participated.

"I think Mr. Morgan's judgment," said Mr. Mellen, "would have been justified in all matters connected with the New England lines had he lived. I never knew him to make a single dollar in any transaction that I have been cognizant of."

In course of his testimony he told of the acquisition by the New Haven of the Rhode Island trolleys at a cost of between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000. These trolleys are now losing the New Haven between $300,000 and $400,000 a year, and Mellen acknowledged that the railroad had paid twice their value for them. He declared ex-Senator Nelson W. Aldrich had been active in bringing about this transaction.

Denies Suspicion of "Water."

Solicitor Folk made it clear that he believed the New Haven had put $20,000,000 of water in its stock through the Consolidated Railway company merger and that this was used to buy control of the Boston and Maine. Mellen denied Mr. Folk's suspicion of water.

As the result of Mellen's testimony light is beginning to break on the mysterious transaction in Boston and Maine stock by which John L. Billard of New Haven made $2,748,000. The evidence seems to indicate that the New Haven's holding of Boston and Maine was sold to Billard in order to evade a Massachusetts law and was bought back as soon as this legal obstacle was removed. Billard refused to regard the transaction as a mere accommodation and kept the profit, although the minutes of the New Haven board of directors showed that strenuous efforts were made to get him to give it up. Commissioner McChord charged on the strength of this testimony that the minutes had been falsified for this purpose, and Mellen himself acknowledged that some of them had been entered for the purpose of giving him a club.

"That minute," said he referring to one entry, "was passed, three months after Billard got away with the stuff."

"Is he trying to keep it?" asked Solicitor Folk.

"Trying to keep it?" interrupted Billard's lawyer. "He has got it and he is going to keep it."

MISSING WIFE AND CHILD

Police of the State Asked to Look For Marion Woman.

Marion, Ind., May 21.—A state-wide search for his missing wife and child has been begun by R. E. Wilkinson of this city. Mrs. Wilkinson disappeared from her home Monday morning. She told her husband she intended to go shopping with the child. She has not been seen or heard from since. It is said Mrs. Wilkinson has been suffering from nervous trouble and recently experienced a serious illness. She has not completely recovered, according to her husband.

Cousins Facing Murder Trial.

Petersburg, Ind., May 21.—The trial of James and Ross Taylor, cousins, charged with first degree murder, is in progress in the Pike circuit court. Wesley Taylor, aged sixteen, a half-brother of James Taylor, was killed at Velpen, Feb. 16 last. It is charged that James Taylor desired to kill his stepmother, but in the darkness shot and killed his half-brother. Ross Taylor, who was with James Taylor at the time of the shooting, is held as an accomplice.

SETS MEXICAN POT TO BUBBLING ANEW

Definite Assurance That Parks Was Executed.

Washington, May 21.—The Mexican pot was set bubbling anew by the announcement from Secretary of War Garrison that an affidavit had been secured detailing statements from an eye-witness to the execution of Private Samuel Parks by federal forces near Vera Cruz.

According to this affidavit Parks, attired in the United States uniform, was shot by a firing squad of Mexican soldiers. This was the first information of any authoritative character which the United States government has received with regard to the death of Parks.

It is believed certain that the information secured by the war department will immediately be made the basis of representations to the mediators that Huerta has violated the armistice and of a strong demand directly to Huerta himself for suitable reparation. Secretary of State Bryan said that no new representations had been made to Mexico City as yet. It is certain that nothing will be done at this time to jeopardize the success of the mediation proceedings, but if they fail the United States will make the Parks incident the basis for drastic action. Secretary Garrison refused to make public the affidavit or to disclose fully the description of the execution which it contains.

INDIANA WOMEN'S SLOGAN

Mrs. Bolton's Pridelful Song Adopted by Club Women.

Indianapolis, May 21.—A slogan has been adopted by the club women of Indiana who will attend the biennial of the General Federation of Clubs in Chicago, June 9-19. The words were taken from a poem written by Sarah T. Bolton, and were set to music by Corinne L. Barcus. The words are: "The winds of heaven never fanned; The circling sunlight never spanned The borders of a fairer land, Than our own Indiana, Indiana, Indiana, Indiana."

The words and music have been printed on slips of paper and are being sent to every club woman in the state. At the district meetings of the federated clubs the slogan is being practiced, and it is the purpose to sing it at the Indiana dinner at the biennial, and whenever Hoosier enthusiasm overflows at the convention.

CONFESSES TO KILLING STOCK

Sensational Testimony of a Woman in Arson Case.

ANOTHER WOMAN IS ACCUSED

Trial of Four Alleged Firebugs in Daviess County Was Given a New and Sensational Turn When Former Housekeeper of Dr. Wolfe, One of the Defendants, Told Her Story on the Witness Stand.

Washington, Ind., May 21.—From the testimony offered by Miss Annie E. Kutter, the state evidently has sprung its star witness in the arson cases against Dr. D. V. Wolfe, Perry Drake, A. M. Perkins and Van Allan, now on trial in the Daviess circuit court.

Miss Kutter for several years was a housekeeper for Dr. Wolfe, who is a veterinary surgeon. She not only implicated the veterinary surgeon in the burning of barns and the killing of animals, but she also accused Mrs. Perry Drake of Sullivan county and, upon the witness stand, amid tears, confessed to destroying animals herself.

Miss Kutter said that a day or so before the Allan fire, upon which the present case is based, Dr. Wolfe brought a bundle of candles to his home, saying they were for experimental purposes at the Allan barn. Allan and Wolfe marked the candles by inches and timed the burning. Then, according to the witness, they were set and Wolfe went to Terre Haute after leaving instructions to call him when she was acquainted of the blaze, which was done. After the fire Wolfe told the woman, according to her statement, that he was to get $1,700 for his part.

"The first animal killed," said the witness, "was Starry Tuck, a bull. I did the work." Insurance in the sum of $500 was obtained.

Then came the deaths of three other animals. Insurance amounting to $1,000 was obtained on the first two and litigation is pending on a $500 policy on the last. A house owned by Wolfe was fired by the woman, she testified, and the doctor received $475 from a $500 policy.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER X.

The Green Eyed Monster.

"WHILE There I Seek, Protecting Power," was the first hymn on this particular Sunday morning, and it usually held Patty's rather vagrant attention to the end, though it failed to do so today. The Baxters occupied one of the wing pews, a position always to be envied, as one could see the singers without turning around and also observe everybody in the congregation—their entrance, garments, behavior and especially their bonnets—without being in the least indiscreet or seeming to have a roving eye.

Lawyer Wilson's pew was the second in front of the Baxters in the same wing, and Patty, seated decorously but unwillingly beside her father, was impatiently awaiting the entrance of the family, knowing that Mark would be with them if he had returned from Boston. Timothy Grant, the parish clerk, had the pew in between and afforded a most edifying spectacle to the community, as there were seven young Grants of a churchgoing age, and the ladies of the congregation were always counting them, reckoning how many more were in their cradles at home and trying to guess from Mrs. Grant's lively or chastened countenance whether any new ones had been born since the Sunday before.

Patty settled herself comfortably and put her foot on the wooden "cricket," raising her buff calico a little on the congregation side, just enough to show an inch or two of petticoat. The petticoat was as modestly long as the frock itself, and disclosing a bit of it was nothing more heinous than a casual exhibition of good needlework. Deacon Baxter furnished only the unbleached muslin for his daughters' undergarments, but twice little tucks laboriously done by hand, elaborate inch wide edging, ecchoeted from white spool cotton and days of bleaching on the grass in the sun will make a petticoat that can be shown in church with some justifiable pride.

The Wilsons came up the aisle a moment later than was their usual habit, just after the parson had ascended the pulpit. Mrs. Wilson always entered the pew first and sat in the far end. Patty had looked at her admiringly and with a certain feeling of proprietorship for several Sundays. There was obviously no such desirable mother-in-law in the meeting house. Her changeable silk dress was the latest mode, her shawl of black llama lace expressed wealth in every delicate mesh, and her bonnet had a distinction that could only have emanated from Portland or Boston. Ellen Wilson usually came next, with as much of a smile to Patty in passing as she dared venture in the deacon's presence, and after her sidled in her younger sister, Selma, commonly called "Silly," and with considerable reason.

Mark had come home! Patty dared not look up, but she felt his approach behind the others, although her eyes sought the floor and her cheeks hung out signals of abashed but certain welcome. She heard the family settle in their seats somewhat hastily, the click of the pew door and the sound of Lawyer Wilson's cane as he stood it in the corner; then the parson rose to pray, and Patty closed her eyes with the rest of the congregation.

Opening them when Elder Boone rose to announce the hymn, they fell—amazed, resentful, uncomprehending—on the spectacle of Mark Wilson finding the place in the book for a strange young woman who sat beside him. Mark himself had on a new suit and wore a seal ring that Patty had never observed before, while the dress, pelisse and hat of the unknown were of a nature that no girl in Patty's position, and particularly of Patty's disposition, could have regarded without a desire to tear them from her person and stamp them underfoot or, better still, daunt them herself and show the world how they should be worn!

Mark found the place in the hymn book for the creature, shared it with her, and once, when the Grant twins wriggled and Patty secured a better view, once, Mark shifted his hand on the page so that his thumb touched that of his pretty neighbor, who did not remove hers as if she found the proximity either unpleasant or improper. Patty compared her own miserable attire with that of the hated rival in front, and also contrasted Lawyer Wilson's appearance with that of her father; the former, well dressed in the style of a gentleman of the time, in broadcloth, with fine linen, and a tall silk hat carefully placed on the floor of the pew, while Deacon Baxter wore homespun made of wool from his own sheep, spun and woven, dyed and finished, at the fulling mill in the village, and carried a battered felt hat that had been a matter of ridicule these dozen years. The deacon would be buried in two coats, Jed Morrill always said, for he owned just that number and would be too mean to leave either of 'em behind him.

The sermon was fifty minutes long, time enough for a deal of thinking.

Many a housewife, not wholly orthodox, cut and made over all her children's clothes, in imagination; planned the putting up of her fruit, the making of her preserves and pickles, and arranged her meals for the next week, during the progress of those sermons. Patty watched the parson turn leaf after leaf until the final one was reached. Then came the last hymn, when the people stretched their aching limbs and rising, turned their back on the minister and faced the choir. Patty looked at Waitstill and wished that she could put her throbbing head on her sister's shoulder and cry—mostly with rage. The benediction was said, and with the final "Amen" the pews were opened and the worshippers crowded into the narrow aisles and moved toward the doors.

Patty's plans were all made. She was out of her pew before the Wilsons could possibly leave theirs and in her progress down the aisle securely annexed her old admirer, old Dr. Perry as well as his son, Philip. Passing the singing seats, she picked up the humble Cephas and carried him along in her wake, chatting and talking with her little party while her father was at the horse sheds making ready to go home between services, as was his habit, a cold bite being always set out on the kitchen table according to his orders. By means of these clever maneuvers Patty made herself the focus of attention when the Wilson party came out on the steps and vouchsafed Mark only a nonchalant nod, airily flinging a little greeting with the nod, just a "How d'ye do, Mark? Did you have a good time in Boston?"

Patty and Waitstill, with some of the girls who had come long distances, ate their luncheon in a shady place under the trees behind the meeting house, for there was an afternoon service to come, a service with another long sermon. They separated after the modest meal to walk about the common or stray along the road to the academy, where there was a fine view.

Two or three times during the summer the sisters always went quietly and alone to the Baxter burying lot, where three grass grown graves lay beside one another, unmarked save by narrow wooden slabs, so short that the initials painted on them were almost hidden by the tufts of clover. The girls had brought roots of pansies and sweet alyssum and with a knife made holes in the earth and planted them here and there to make the spot a trifle less forbidding. They did not speak to each other during this sacred little ceremony. Their hearts were too full when they remembered afresh the absence of headstones, the lack of care, in the place where the three women lay who had ministered to their father, borne him children and patiently endured his arbitrary and loveless rule. Even Cleve Flanders' grave—the Edgewood shoemaker, who lay next—even his resting place was marked and, with a touch of some one's imagination, marked by the old man's own lapstone, twenty-five pounds in weight, a monument of his workaday life.

Waitstill rose from her feet, brushing the earth from her hands, and Patty did the same. The churchyard was quiet, and they were alone with the dead, mourned and unmourned, loved and unloved.

"I planted one or two pansies on the first one's grave," said Waitstill soberly. "I don't know why we've never done it before. There are no children to take notice of and remember her; it's the least we can do, and, after all, she belongs to the family."

"There is no family and there never was," suddenly cried Patty. "Oh, Waity, Waity, we are so alone, you and I! We've only each other in all the world, and I'm not the least bit of help to you as you are to me! I'm a silly, vain, conceited, ill behaved thing."

"Oh, Waity, Waity, we are so alone."

But I will be better, I will! You won't ever give me up, will you, Waity, even if I'm not like you? I haven't been good lately!"

"Hush, Patty, hush!" And Waitstill came nearer to her sister with a motherly touch of her hand. "I'll not have you say such things; you are the help-fullest and the loveliest girl that ever was, and the cleverest, too, and the liveliest and the best company keeper."

"No one thinks so but you," Patty responded dolefully, although she wiped her eyes as if a bit consoled.

It is safe to say that Patty would never have given Mark Wilson a second thought had he not taken her to drive on that afternoon in early May. The drive, too, would have quickly fled from her somewhat fickle memory had not been for the kiss. The kiss was indeed a decisive factor in the situation and had shed a rosy, if somewhat flimsy light of romance over the past three weeks. Perhaps even the kiss, had it never been repeated, might have lapsed into its true perspective in due course of time had it not been for the sudden appearance of the stranger in the Wilson pew. The moment that Patty's gaze fell upon that fashionably dressed, instantaneously disliked girl, Marquis Wilson's stock rose twenty points in the market. She ceased in a jiffy to weigh and consider and criticize the young man, but regarded him with wholly new eyes. His figure was better than she had realized, his smile more interesting, his manners more attractive, his eye lashes longer; in a word, he had suddenly grown desirable. A month ago she could have observed with idle and alien curiosity the spectacle of his thumb drawing nearer to another (female) thumb on the page of the "Watts and Select Hymn Book." Now, at the morning service, she had wished nothing so much as to put Mark's thumb back into his pocket where it belonged and slap the girl's thumb smartly and soundly as it deserved.

The ignorant cause of Patty's distress was a certain Annabel Franklin, the daughter of a cousin of Mrs. Wilson's. Mark had stayed at the Franklin house during his three weeks' visit in Boston, where he had gone on business for his father. The young people had naturally seen much of each other and Mark's inflammable fancy had been so kindled by Annabel's doll-like charms that he had persuaded her to accompany him to his home and get a taste of country life in Maine. Such is man, such is human nature and such is life, that Mark had no sooner got the whilom object of his affections under his own roof than she began to pall.

Annabel was twenty-three, and, to tell the truth, she had palled before more than once. She was so amiable, so well finished—with her smooth flaxen hair, her neat nose, her buttonhole of a mouth and her trig shape—that she appealed to the opposite sex quite generally and irresistibly as a worthy helpmate. The only trouble was that she began to bore her suitors somewhat too early in the game, and they never got far enough to propose marriage. Flaws in her apparent perfection appeared from day to day and chilled the growth of the various young loves that had budded so auspiciously. She always agreed with everybody and everything in sight, even to the point of changing her mind on the instant if circumstances seemed to make it advisable. Her instinctive point of view, when she went so far as to hold one, was somewhat cut and dried—in a word, priggish. Her father had an ample fortune, and some one would inevitably turn up who would regard Annabel as an altogether worthy and desirable spouse. That was what she had seemed to Mark Wilson for a full week before he left the Franklin house in Boston, but there were moments now when he regretted, fugitively, that he had ever removed her from her proper sphere. She did not seem to fit into the conditions of life in Edgewood, and it may even be that her most glaring fault had been to describe Patty Baxter's hair at this very Sunday dinner as "carrot," her dress altogether "dreadful" and her style of beauty "unladylike." Ellen Wilson's feelings were somewhat injured by these criticisms of her intimate friend, and, in dismissing the matter privately with her brother, he was inclined to agree with her.

And thus, so little do we know of the pranks of the blind god, thus was Annabel Franklin working for her rival's best interests, and, instead of reviling her in secret and treating her with disdain in public, Patty should have welcomed her cordially to all the delights of Riverboro society.

ALBANIA'S THRONE IS ALREADY TOTTERING

King William Facing a Serious Insurrection.

Vienna, May 20.—The new ruler of Albania, Prince William of Wied, did not have to wait long to see the fulfillment of the predictions that he would meet with trouble which, were made before his acceptance of the throne of that country on the invitation of the powers. An insurrection of the central and northern Albanian peasantry has suddenly broken out. It is said to have been instigated by Essed Pasha, who has had an adventurous career in the country, of which he at one time proclaimed himself king, but who has been regarded as the power behind the throne of King William.

The insurrection is directed against the dynasty and the government. Essed Pasha has been arrested and imprisoned and the Epret (the title of the new king) and his family are being protected by sailors from Austrian and Italian warships at Durazzo. The trouble is largely due to the people's objection to the taxes and to compulsory military service, and is complicated by characteristic local feuds and intrigues in which Essed Pasha, notwithstanding his effusive professions of loyalty to the Epret, is deeply concerned.

DRUG TRAFFIC GANG BUSY

Distributors of Cocaine Said to Be Working in Indiana.

Lafayette, Ind., May 20.—The first prosecution in Lafayette for traffic in drugs forbidden by law followed the arrest of Donn Kelley, who was brought here from Alexandria at the request of the police, to face a charge of distributing cocaine in this city. Kelley was charged with having given the drug to Joseph Smith in this city May 8. Kelley and Smith came to this city from Illinois. Smith was found in a stupor in the Lake Erie and Western railroad yards. Kelley was traced to Alexandria and his arrest followed. It is alleged he is a member of a drug traffic gang that has been at work several months in Indiana.

Kelley was fined $25 and costs and was given a jail sentence of ninety days.

Chamberlain's Liniment.

This preparation is intended especially for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and like ailment. It is a favorite with people who are well acquainted with its splendid qualities. Mrs. Charles Tanner, Wabash, Ind., says of it, "I have found Chamberlain's Liniment the best thing for lame back and sprains I have ever used. It works like a charm and relieves pain and soreness. It has been used by others of my family as well as myself for upwards of twenty years." 25 and 50 cent bottles. For sale by All Dealers.

JOHN L. GRIFFITH'S BODY

Will Be Brought From London at Government Expense.

Washington, May 20.—The state department is informed that the body of United States Consul General John L. Griffiths will be sent home next Saturday aboard the steamship Carmania. Mrs. Griffiths will accompany it from London. By direction of the department of state Ambassador Page is making the arrangements for the return of the body. The government will follow the unusual custom of bearing all the expenses of the return home.

The body on arrival in New York city will be sent directly to Indianapolis for burial.

Traction Lineman Electrocuted.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 20.—Henry Fitzgerald, age thirty-two, of Rushville, was killed while at work in a substation of the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Traction company, not far from Gwynneville. He was a lineman in the employ of the traction company. Fitzgerald touched an open switch. Thirty-three hundred volts passed through his body.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache and despondency, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She says, "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health." For sale by All Dealers.

Tricking the Hens.

Chinamen have a way of tricking hens so that they assist in the hatching of fish. Fish eggs are carefully placed in an eggshell, which is then sealed and placed under an unsuspecting hen. In a few days the spawn is warmed into life, and the contents of the shell are then cast into a shallow pool where the sunshine completes the work.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

ANNUAL RECEPTION.

The ninth annual reception of the Home Department of the First Baptist Sunday School was held at the church this afternoon. There was a large attendance of the members present who enjoyed the program of music and short addresses which had been planned. A reading was given by Mrs. R. O. Mayes. Brief statements were made by Mrs. Culver, Rev. T. C. Smith, Mrs. Ed Perkinson and Mrs. Cobb, who lead each week in the lesson study and by Miss Minnie Shepard, assistant superintendent of the department. A solo was given by Miss Anna E. Carter.

The principal address was made by the pastor, Rev. Charles L. Graham. At the close of the program a group picture of the department was taken and refreshments were served. The Sunday School room was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. M. C. Carpenter has been superintendent of the Home Department since its organization nine years ago. It has grown steadily from a few members at that time to an enrollment of almost 200 at this time. Miss Myrtle Hackleberry, of Muncie, was present and assisted Mrs. Carpenter in the reception this afternoon.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Steinwedel celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary Wednesday and in honor of the event entertained a number of relatives and friends at their home on South Chestnut street in the evening. A musical program was arranged and the guests thoroughly enjoyed the various vocal and instrumental selections. The host and hostess received a number of handsome presents indicative of the high esteem in which they are held by their friends. Refreshments were served and the evening proved very delightful and one of unusual pleasure.

DIERKER-BURRELL.

Noble Dierker, of Granite City, Ill., and Miss Grace Burrell, of this city, were married Wednesday evening at Brownstown by Rev. H. H. Elmore, pastor of the First Baptist church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Barrell, of this city. They passed through here this morning on their way to North Vernon to spend a few days but will return here for a visit before leaving for their home in Granite City. Mr. and Mrs. Dierker are both well known and have the best wishes of their friends.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Cards have been received here announcing the engagement of Mr. J. Carney Hicks, of Jackson, Ala., and Miss Edwin Toms, of Camdon, Ala. Miss Toms is a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Toms, of this city and two years ago was here on an extended visit when she made many friends. The wedding will occur in June and Miss Luella Toms will act as maid of honor at the wedding.

Glass Case Broken.

The glass case used by the Steinwedel Clothing Company for the display of collars was torn from its place on one of the iron columns in front of the store Wednesday night and demolished. The broken case was found against the door this morning. The vandals who broke the case were compelled to cut the wire around the bottom and then pry it loose from the top. That considerable force was used to tear it down was shown by the bent screws which held it in place.

G. H. Anderson completed another wheat inspection trip through parts of Jackson, Bartholomew and Decatur counties Wednesday and reports that the Hessian fly is found in practically all the fields. He was accompanied by a number of prominent farmers of Decatur county who predicted a short crop this summer. It is said, however, that the condition would probably be greatly improved if a heavy rain should fall followed by several days' of cooler weather.

Boy Scouts Friday Night.

On account of the class play on Thursday night the Boy Scouts and Pathfinders will meet at the high school gymnasium Friday evening, May 22 at 7 o'clock. Every scout who helped in clean-up week is especially asked to be present as well as all the other boys. Something special. m15d

Do not fail to see the delightful farce comedy to be presented by the Senior class of Shields High School, at the Majestic tonight.

Seymour Temperatures.
